DAILY CONSTITUTION.

ATLANTA, SATURDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 18.

RATCLIFFE'S SHOT!

The Little Passage at Arms Between Two Augusta Gentlemen.

Tilly in a Serious Condition.

The Augusta Constitutionalist contains a graphic account of the late duel at Sand Bar Ferry. From it we glean the following particulars:

THE CORRESPONDENCE.

AUGUSTA, GA., December 13, 1875.

George E. Ratcliffe, Esq.:

Sir: Rumors detrimental to my character, and to my law practice, have been repeated by you, and it is my obligation to demand of you your authority. What that you say is useless for me to mention, but I can assure you that I am well aware of their nature. I pronounced the trial of the State of Georgia, and I will hold any man responsible for the further repeating of the slander.

JENNINGS & ASHLER.

81 and 33 Broad street, the Bridge.

Special Card from Gee, Sharp, Jr.

I have just returned from New York, and the news office, and those press, purchased, at hard press prices, the finest and best selected stock of Franklin Jewelry and Plate. I have the pleasure of announcing that I now try to bring the community. Advertisers, and the fact, is always true, that manufacturers, and I offer this present magnificent stock, in a very sacerdotal, and unique, and I will sell all orders promptly and always at the lowest rates. C. O. D. orders are simply sent to my office, and shall call at my place.

J. W. GEE, Sharp, Jr.

81 and 33 Broad street, Atlanta, Ga.

The last paragraph of your note is so general in its character, and based so entirely upon the statements of the press, that the future, that I do not feel called upon to cite you any specific instances.

Respectfully, CHAS. D. TILLY.
